The Pitch (30 Seconds)

Elevator Pitch

“Your operations, program, and delivery staff already talk to your government customers every day. But do they know how to recognize and escalate growth opportunities? Our GovCon BD Upskilling program trains non-BD employees to actively support business development—identifying opportunities, gathering competitive intel, and supporting capture efforts. $3,999 per employee, fully tax-advantaged through IRS Section 127.”

The Problem We Solve

What Employers Experience

BD team is stretched thin	Opportunities missed; poor capture coverage
Delivery staff don’t understand BD	Miss chances to gather intel or spot recompetes
Siloed knowledge	BD doesn’t know what delivery knows
Reactive, not proactive	Learn about opportunities too late
High BD turnover	Institutional knowledge walks out the door

The Hidden Cost

Most GovCon companies leave money on the table because:

- Delivery staff don’t recognize opportunity signals
- Customer intelligence isn’t captured or shared
- Recompete preparation starts too late
- Proposals are weak due to limited input

Key Message

One missed opportunity costs more than training entire teams.

Our Solution

GovCon BD Upskilling - 30-Day Foundation

4-week live program	Fits into work schedules
8 instructor-led sessions	Interactive, not passive
Hands-on exercises	Real skills, not just theory
Free public tools	No ongoing software costs
Certificate of Completion	Documented skill acquisition
Manager support materials	Easy integration with work

What Employees Learn

1	Market & Buyer Intelligence	Research agencies, understand spending patterns
2	Opportunity Discovery & Engagement	Find opportunities, engage customers appropriately
3	BD & Capture Fundamentals	Understand process, support capture efforts
4	Proposal Support & Readiness	Support proposals, maintain compliance

Who Should Attend

- Program managers on federal contracts
- Operations and delivery staff
- Technical staff with customer contact
- Contracts and finance professionals
- New hires joining GovCon companies
- Anyone supporting BD/capture activities

ROI Calculator

Direct Revenue Impact

Average federal contract value	$2M - $10M
Win rate improvement (from better capture support)	5-10%
One additional win per year	$2M - $10M revenue
Training cost per employee	$3,999
Employees trained to generate one additional win	5-10
ROI: One win covers training for 500-2,500 employees	50x - 250x ROI

Indirect Value

Better recompete positioning	Retain $X million in existing contracts
Earlier opportunity identification	More time to capture = higher win probability
Improved proposal quality	Evaluators score higher
Customer intelligence	Competitive advantage
Employee retention	Avoid $15-25K replacement cost per person

Cost-Per-Employee Analysis

Program cost	$3,999
IRS Section 127 benefit (tax-free up to $5,250)	-$3,999
Effective cost	$0

Tax Advantage

Under IRS Section 127, employers can provide up to $5,250 per employee per year in tax-free educational assistance. Since our program costs $3,999, the entire amount is covered—making the effective cost to the employer $0.

Objection Handling

“We already have BD training”

Response: “Great—this isn’t for your BD team. This is for everyone else. Your operations staff, PMs, and delivery teams interact with customers daily but probably don’t know how to recognize opportunity signals or support capture efforts. This fills that gap.”

“Our people don’t have time”

Response: “The program is 5-6 hours per week for 4 weeks—comparable to one day of training per week. And the skills are immediately applicable. Most participants start identifying opportunities during the first week.”

“$3,999 per employee is expensive”

Response: “Consider this: one federal contract is worth millions. If training five employees helps you win one additional contract, the ROI is 100x or more. Plus, IRS Section 127 makes it completely tax-free—your effective cost is $0.”

■ “We’re a small company—we can’t afford this”

Response: “Small companies often need this most. You probably don’t have a dedicated BD team, so everyone needs to contribute to growth. Training 3-5 key people gives you BD capability without hiring specialists.”

■ “Can’t we just train people internally?”

Response: “You could, but do you have someone with the time and expertise to build and deliver a structured program? Our curriculum is built on industry standards (NCMA, PMI), uses free public tools, and comes with a professional facilitator. Your team can focus on winning work.”

■ “What if people leave after we train them?”

Response: “Two points: First, training improves retention—employees who feel invested in are more loyal. Second, you can use a service commitment agreement requiring repayment if they leave within 12-24 months. We provide templates.”

Discovery Questions

■ Identify Pain Points

1. “How does your BD team currently get intelligence from delivery staff?”
2. “When was the last time an operations person surfaced an opportunity that turned into a pursuit?”
3. “How early do you typically learn about recompetes opportunities?”
4. “What happens when a BD person leaves? Who fills the gap?”
5. “How confident are your non-BD staff in customer conversations?”

■ Qualify the Opportunity

1. “How many employees work on federal contracts?”
2. “What’s your annual federal revenue?”
3. “How many contracts are up for recompetes in the next 2 years?”
4. “Do you have an educational assistance program (Section 127)?”
5. “Who makes training decisions—HR, BD leadership, or executives?”

■ Establish Value

1. “What would one additional contract win be worth to you?”
2. “What’s the cost of losing a recompetes due to poor preparation?”
3. “How much do you spend on external BD consultants?”
4. “What’s the turnover cost when a BD person leaves?”

- Pricing (based on volume)
- Timeline and logistics
- Section 127 documentation
- Terms and conditions

Close Timeline: 2-4 weeks from proposal to enrollment

Competitive Positioning

Versus Other Training Options

Internal training	Low cost	Time, expertise required	We provide structured program + facilitator
NCMA courses	Industry standard	Not practical/hands-on	We focus on application, not theory
GovWin/Deltek training	Tool-specific	Tied to paid tools	We use free public tools
Conference sessions	Networking	Not deep enough	We provide 4-week structured program
Consultants	Customized	Expensive ($200-500/hr)	We provide structured program at fraction of cost

Our Differentiators

Practical, hands-on	Skills are immediately applicable
Free public tools	No ongoing software cost
Completion-based	No exam stress; focus on skill acquisition
Manager support	Ensures application to real work
Tax-advantaged	Section 127 reduces effective cost
GovCon-specific	Not generic training; built for federal contractors
